

Dear Readers,

As you have probably noticed, on our webpage there have been added several texts written in different European languages. This attitude is not about publishing of some random materials, as the goal of our project – which we called Septentrion – is to introduce important identitarian ideas into Czech scene as like as like as transmitting them into various European language spheres.

Therefore we do not consider our main aim to be neither just pure „picking“ of some multilingual texts (as it may be in case of webpages Nueva Derecha), nor publication of separate articles (with Euro-Synergies as the main example). The main prerequisite of our project is publishing of the original version, its Czech translation and then (whenever possible) publishing of the original article in different language versions.

We hope this approach will help the Delian Diver webpage (aside its hitherto objective) to become a gateway to the ideas originating beyond the borders of Czech republic and to broaden our readers' horizons which we would like to push towards European thinking and improving of language skills. We also suppose they will serve as a agora – meeting point and place for European identitarian ideas.
